

Unless something dramatic happens this may well be my last political article before the next State election. I am of the belief that like my loyalty to nation with our Duty First attitude, I feel the time to stop is coming soon. I have given it my best to wake Victorians up regarding the inconsistencies of a poor Labor Government. A government that failed to put the people first and now we find that we are last on their list of priorities. Therefore you are on a good wicket so to speak if you can hold out until the next election at the latter half of the year and put Labor last when you go and vote.

Don't be bullied or intimidated by those electoral officers who go around handing out postal votes or how to vote cards telling, advising you and even intimidating you that it is what Daniel Andrews or the local member wants your vote.

Be strong and don't be fooled by the skilful rhetoric and political manure you are fed. You as a Victorian voter deserve better and don't be taken for a fool. After all it is our life that they hold in balance and I can tell you now that a Labor government is just not the answer or the panacea to the ills of this government we have in power now.

As we were taught during our jungle training in the jungles of Far North Queensland, "Look through the foliage to see what is on the other side". In other words don't take someone's word for it and vote as you feel best and what is in the interests of all Victorians.

I am writing this article only because I am fed up with the lies and the continual rotting of the system by a Government that started off well by stating that they will put the people first but have been caught with their guilty hands in the taxpayer's office stealing what rightfully belongs to all Victorians.

As always, apologies for the savagery of the English language. I am but a mere peasant masquerading as a freelance journalist in a pool of professionals. Remember, put Labor last.

Peter Adamis is a Journalist/Social Media Commentator and writer. He is a retired Australian military serviceman and an Industry organisational & Occupational (OHS) & Training Consultant whose interests are within the parameters of domestic and international political spectrum. He is an avid blogger and contributes to domestic and international community news media outlets as well as to local and Ethnic News. He holds a Bachelor of Adult Learning & Development (Monash), Grad Dip Occupational Health & Safety, (Monash), and Dip. Training & Assessment, Dip Public Administration, and Dip Frontline Management. Website